

SAFETY

Safety has been a core value at ARL since the company's inception. Expectations and results are based upon a full and uncompromising commitment to provide a safe and healthy working environment. Our company embraces the proactive concept of planning safety into every task, everyday, striving for zero injuries and zero negative impact to our employees and our clients. Safety requires the full participation of everyone, everyday, and it is a condition of employment. We provide employees with the resources, tools, and training necessary to create the safest possible work environment.

ARL has an outstanding safety record and a fully integrated safety program, which was developed to serve as a guide in achieving:

- Compliance with OSHA, state, local and client safety and health standards and regulations.
- Reducing the risk of personal injury and property damage.
- Realistic and workable safety policies, procedures, and methods.

ARL believes that promoting safety can lead to better workmanship, production, and morale. Maintaining safety standards benefits all parties involved, thereby creating a better environment for employers, employees, and their families.
